Northeast Health Science
Magnet High School

Dr. Samuel Scavella,
Complex Principal

"N" SIDE THE MIND OF DR. SCAVELLA

He was this close to becoming a NFL player, but fate stepped in and now Dr. Sam Scavella, who initially was a business major, is the complex principal at Northeast Health Science Magnet High School.

Dr. Scavella's tenure at Northeast has been met with a myriad of highs and lows. His best memory as principal of Northeast was seeing all the heart-felt tears and happy faces when he shared the graduation results with the class of 2008 and so many of them had passed. The biggest challenge he has had to face is reaching out to all Northeast students' parents about how critical it is to make good decisions about their child's education while stressing the importance of parental involvement.

Not only is Dr. Scavella like a father to the students here, he is a real father to three daughters. Dr. Scavella says that being a principal makes him a better parent, but being a parent also makes him a better principal. "So it is a reciprocal process," he says.

Because he is such a strong disciplinarian, most people would be shocked to know that he was the class clown in high school. "But I knew what it took for me to graduate and accomplish my goals."

He is charged with ensuring that every student at Northeast receives a quality education, which he believes is "the sum total of the learning experiences a student encounters in a given day." And that's the real "N" side story!

Dr. Scavella calls order to his meeting with staff members.

" WELCOME, MIGHTY RAIDERS"

Dr. Scavella always has an encouraging smile and word for the Mighty Raiders.

Dr. Scavella as he strikes a pose.

Dr. Scavella never lets a hard day in his office take away his smile.

Dr. Scavella conducts a meeting to plan instructional focus activities for the students.

Dr. Scavella congratulates Senior Sherdana Woodford.

"ACHIEVING GREAT THINGS THROUGH PRIDE, PROGRESS AND PROFESSIONALISM"

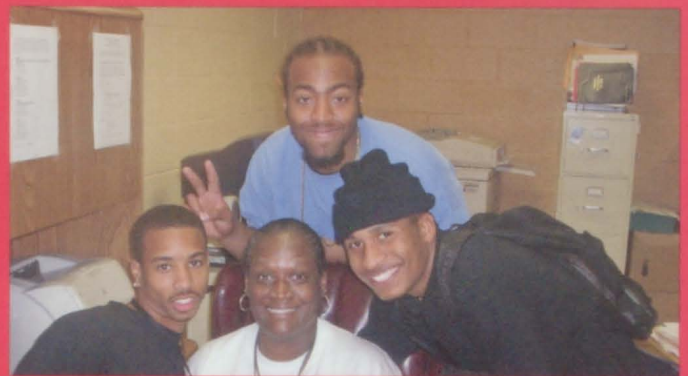

Who's "N" Office.....

Our administrative staff here at Northeast is one unlike any other. They work hard everyday to make sure that our school operates the way a school should and to establish a good and safe learning environment for the students. They strive to make us better adults in the future. You could say that they are our guardians away from home. Who knows where we would be if it weren't for them? Thanks for all that you do in order to make Northeast what it is.

What's Inside These Pages?

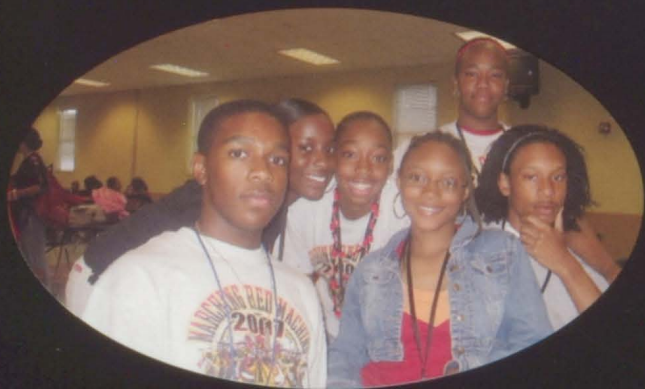

A Letter from the Editor

We've all heard that there are two sides to every story, but here at Northeast, life is more like one, long, unending narrative with surprises on every page, smiles at every paragraph, tears in every chapter, and everything else in between.

This year's theme, "The N Side Story," is our way of giving the rest of the world the true, inside story of what it's like to be a Raider and a resident of Raider Country.

As you browse through this book, the chapters of our lives unfold as quickly as the pages do. The story of 2008 is a story of hardships being overcome, trials being turned into triumphs, and battles fought and won. The "N" Side Story is our way of giving the rest of the world a glimpse into the Raider way of doing things. As always, the truth isn't on the surface but the "N" side, waiting to be discovered. We invite you to come along for the ride.

Student life is all about who we are as Raiders and what sets us apart from other schools. The students are who make the school, and a great school plus great students equal The Mighty Raiders.

Take a peek "N" side our lives and see why we are called the Mighty Raiders. It's in our style, our conversations, and our swagger. A Raider is more than a mascot; it's a lifestyle.

Rip the Runway

Style, color, and the way it's been put together is what makes a fashion statement. It's not about what you are wearing~ it's how you wear it because it's another way of expressing yourself. If your style is not making a runway statement, then it's not ripping the runway.

While we know that it's what's on the "n" side that counts, it doesn't hurt to have a fabulous cover!

N-Side

The Fast And The Furious

Senior Christina Emery is white hot on her Alara.

Senior Courtney Leary is the envy of all bus-riders in her '08 Dodge Charger.

Senior Malcolm Thorpe is gallant on his Galante.

Senior Joe Aaron is sitting side ways on and off the road.

Senior Sherdana Woodford is on top of the world while sitting on or riding in the finest blue car in the parking lot.

Seniors Kiera Mason and Katrina Hand are "Top Dollar Divas" on top of their '94 Lincoln Towncars.

As the years progress, work is done and hardships are overcome. For teenagers, the status symbol of our work is a car, also known as, a WHIP. When you think of whips, you visualize rims, candy-paint, booming systems, and tinted windows. Northeast student drivers have all of that. Whether they're new or old school, the students all want to get "n" side these rides. These are the whips of NEHS.

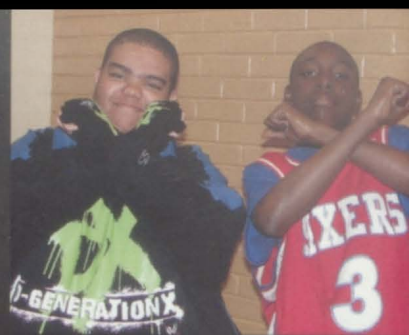

Friends in the "N"

Seniors Deishana Jackson and Sheroni Danielly are great dancers and also great friends.

Seniors Alyssa Curry and Christina Emery are friends until the end.

Freshmen Randy Clark and Raynard Fuller exemplifying brotherhood.

Sophomores ShaVisia Parham's and Esika DeBerry's friendship dates back to Appling.

Seniors Xavia Hutchings and Sarah Harris are more like sisters than friends.

Sophomores Jasmine Hill and Brianna Wells are best friends.

Juniors Jasmine Cherry, Beijing Smith, Kentzell Rhodes and Brittanie Evans.

Freshmen Jessica Vickers and Terrance Willison have been friends since first grade.

Seniors Courtney Green and Amber Hughes are the definition of true friends and good athletes.

Here at Northeast High School, family happens to be important. Most friendships that are born here last forever and form an extended family.

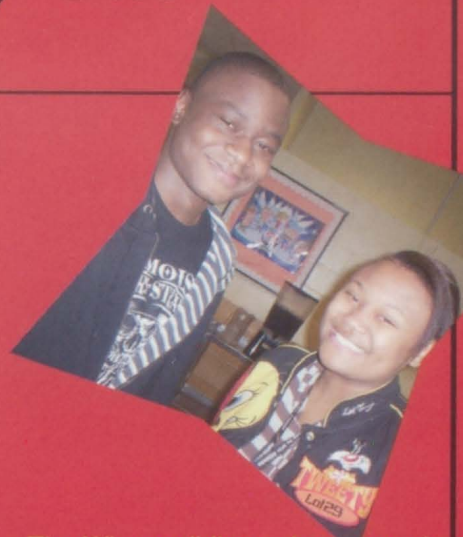

Friends

The Northeast Family Tree

Seniors Allison and Allicia Huston show their sisterly love.

The Wimes siblings, Jeremy and Arinna, never let sibling rivalry get in the way of family ties.

Basketball stars, Senior Cortney Green and Freshman Maria Bond, protect one another on and off the court.

Sophomore ShaVisia Parham, shows her little sis, Shatavia, how "real" Raiders do it on the Eastside

Look at those Barnes sisters: La'niece, Trenice, Lakeisha, and Jasmine!!!

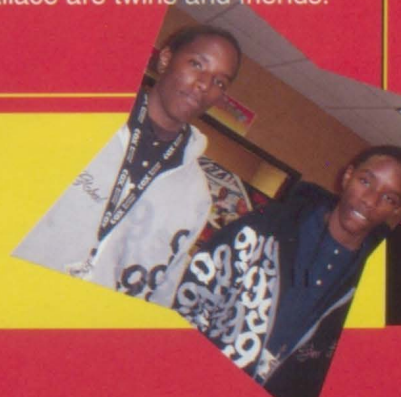

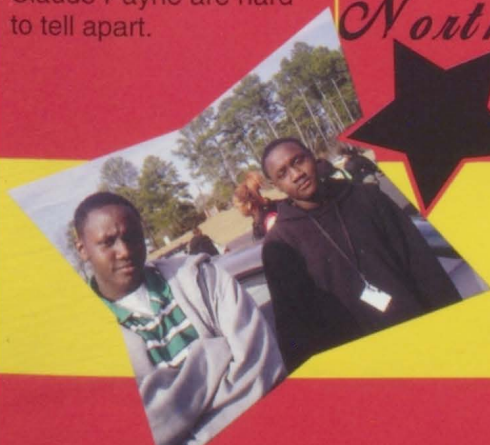

Juniors Tarrus and Tarrence Wallace are twins and friends.

One Night Only

It was a night of glamour, mystery, and surprises. On December 1, 2007, Northeast High School presented its second annual Phenomenal Goddess Scholarship Pageant. The contestants prepared for months for this special night. The crowd was brought to their feet at the beginning of the program by a stirring rendition of "One Night Only" by Katrina Hand and contestants, Kayla Cooper and Latoya Woodford. Host, Quinterrence Bell, kept the audience laughing and entertained through the contestants' dance number and casual and formal wear competition.

During the interview portion of the pageant, these young ladies proved that they are not only beautiful but also intelligent. The climatic moment of the night was when Senior Sherdana Woodford was crowned Northeast's 2008 Phenomenal Goddess. Her court included: First runner-up, Kayla Cooper, and Second runner-up, Latoya Woodford, who was also the pageant's talent winner. These poised and talented young ladies are proof that Northeast is not only the home of the Raiders, but is also the realm of the Goddesses.

"N" the Community, "N" the Streets, & Making a Difference

For Raiders, the Day Doesn't Stop at 2:30

When the bell rings to end the school day, many students leave Northeast and enter the world of work- some for pay and some to volunteer. Student spend their free time in activities, ranging from flipping burgers at McDonald's to reading to and tutoring kids.

When asked why she chooses to volunteer when she can work for profit, Senior Charity Heath replied, "I volunteer because I like having the satisfaction of knowing I've made a difference in another young person's life."

Junior Jarius Bryant concurs saying, "It makes me feel good to help young children."

For many students, however, volunteering during their spare time isn't an option. Many have to work to support themselves and, in some cases, to help out their families.

"When you work, you have your own money, and it feels good not to have to ask anybody for anything," says Sophomore Barticia Tyler. "Sometimes I hate having to work on the weekends, though."

With work taking up so much of the students' time, some have trouble balancing both grades and work schedules, but Xavia Hutchings has the solution.

"To balance work and school, I weed out things that aren't important to me. I take time for school and work but leave enough time for myself."

Seniors Sherdana Woodford and Katrina Hand keep the customers happy and the cash register full.

Sophomore Takia Crawford serves up smiles and drinks at the school store.

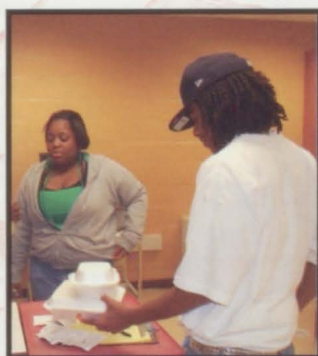

Senior Shareka Hillman shows her patriotic side by raising the school's flag every morning.

Teachers...

Heroes "N" side the classroom

These are the educators who have paved the pathway to learning. They have dedicated their lives to imparting knowledge to their students. Teachers hold the future in their hands because they have the tasks of expanding the minds of the future leaders of this world. We might not like all of them, but we do need them. Hats off to all teachers who have put in the time and effort to educate the next generation of leaders.

A Story 12 Years "X" the Making

The Class of 2008 has finally made it to the last year. We passed the graduation test with flying colors and just barely missed making A&P, but never stopped striving. It took us a long time to get to this point, and we have arrived at our destination. We stand proudly as the class of 2008, never to look back inside the four walls of Northeast High. The Class of 2008 tells the story of education and learning at its best.

Guess Who??

The After-life

High school is said to be one of the most missed memories of your life. During this time there are high school games, the beginning of your teen years, and the most anticipated event of your school days: Graduation! For most Northeast High School seniors, the fun doesn't stop here. I had an opportunity to speak with twelve talented students to see just what their plans are for the Afterlife.

Jarred Moore is a member of the Northeast Marching Red Machine (mellophone), DECA, FBLA, and Student Council. He has a 3.7 GPA and plans on attending The University of Georgia to major in English and Political Science. After graduating from UGA, he plans on obtaining a degree in Law.

Shareka Hillman is currently a cheerleader. After graduation, she plans on joining the Navy to pay for college. While in the Navy, she plans on majoring in nursing. Her future plans are becoming a nurse and having two kids.

Brittanie Magee is a part of the Delta Academy. After graduation, she plans on attending Albany State University for her Bachelor's degree and then Mercer University (Atlanta, Georgia) for a Pharmacy degree. She plans on living in Atlanta, Georgia, and working for CVS or Walgreens as a pharmacist.

Tiara Groce is a dancer for the Northeast Marching Red Machine. She is a member of TAPS, FBLA, and the Academic Bowl Team. She plans on attending Alabama A&M University and majoring in business and accounting. She also will be auditioning for the Dancing Divas.

Deishana Jackson is a member of the Northeast Marching Red Machine, Yearbook Staff, Student Government, HOSA, and Diplomat. She plans on attending Georgia Southern University and majoring in Nursing. Her plans are to finish college, get married, and having kids. She plans on residing in Atlanta, Georgia.

Yashaunya Franklin is a member of FFA, DECA, and SADD. She plans on attending Florida State University to major in Fashion Design. Her minor will be Public Relations. After college, she plans on being a supermodel, of course! She hasn't decided where she will live, but it will either be Florida, New York, or California.

Darrius James is a member of the Northeast Marching Red Machine (percussion), baseball team, and FBLA. He plans on attending Savannah State University to major in Business Management and minor in Marketing. As a career choice, he plans on becoming a marketing manager.

Kiera Mason is Editor-in-Chief of the Yearbook Staff, a member of SADD, the Literary Elite Book Club, and a Diplomat. She wants to attend Atlanta Metropolitan College to major in Biology. She plans on earning a Bachelor's degree and then going to medical school to become a pediatrician. After obtaining a medical degree, she plans on living in New York and owning her own doctor's office.

Malcolm Hunter is student body president, a member of the Academic Bowl Team, DECA, Beta Club, Art Club, Media Club, News Team, and Marching Band (trumpet section leader). He plans on attending Morehouse College to major in Business Marketing & Finance and playing the trumpet for the Morehouse House of Funk Band. After college, he will pursue Real Estate & Marketing Brokering.

Cortney Green is currently on the basketball team, track team, and cross country. She plans on attending the University of Central Florida Orlando to play basketball. Her major will be Physical Therapy, and she plans on becoming a Physical Therapist. After college, she wants to have three kids and to be able to give back to the community.

Brittani Stokes is currently an honor roll student. She is a member of FBLA, TAPS, the Media Club, Marching Band (auxiliary caption), DECA, and the Academic Bowl Team. After graduation, she plans on attending South Carolina State, majoring in Psychology & Pre-Health, and minoring in Spanish. She also aspires to join the illustrious Marching 101 Band. Her career goal is becoming an OBGYN.

Keneisha Morgan is a part of the Yearbook Staff, Northeast Diplomats, the Literary Elite Book Club, JROTC, and Media Club. After graduation, she plans on attending Savannah State University, majoring in International Language, and minoring in Business. She later plans on retiring from the Navy and living in Washington, D.C.

'N' side the Minds of The Class of '09

It's been a while since we were sophomores, and we have come a long way from being freshmen. This year, we have stepped up. We are beyond the the mindset of freshmen. We have ascended past the mentality of sophomores. We have not made the leap of passing the graduation test like the seniors, but when we do, we will set the bar just a little bit higher. We are the class of 2009.

FRESH FACES -N- NEW PLACES!

Do you walk in large groups because you are afraid to walk the halls by yourself? Did it take you longer than five minutes to find your classes on the first day of school? Do you and your friends spend time arguing about who's going to walk into the gym first? If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, then you are probably a freshman.

The class of 2011 are a special bunch. One minute, they're our school's "babies," who need to be nurtured and guided in the right direction. The next, they're met with shaking heads and disapproving scowls, followed by someone uttering, "I bet it was a freshman!" whenever something goes wrong.

The freshmen may sometimes be our wayward brothers and sisters, but we're proud to call them members of our Raider family.

Q: Did you have trouble finding your way around campus during the first week of school?

Devonta Quainter: "It was all right. The teachers and upperclassmen were very helpful."

As a sport that rarely gets recognized, the Northeast Cross Country Team is one of the few teams we can count on for being honored because they are excellent athletes. But it is not even the recognition that they are yearning for; what they are yearning for is victory and success, and they have achieved the goal of being successful this year.

Ronecia Curtis and Amber Hughes exchanging the baton during the 4x100m

Northeast Raiders and Raiderettes are the best track stars. They compete on a level so high that no ordinary track team can touch them. Pure skill is what they call it. With the best 400 meter runner, Senior and Captain Amber Hughes, the fastest 100 meter runner Junior Erica Travet, and thanks to the endurance runners Marquita Williams and Albertina Dean, they lead the Raiderettes to victory.

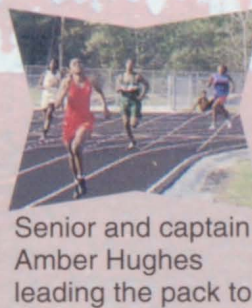

Seniors Shankevia Burke, Amber Hughes, Junior Erica Travet, and Sophomore Ronecia Curtis. 4x100 team.

Sophomore Marquita Williams finishing up the 800m run.

Senior and captain Amber Hughes leading the pack to victory.

Junior Cherie Johnson ahead of the crowd.

Let's not forget about the outstanding boys' team. Thanks to Seniors Gary Howard, Samario Dennis and Quinton McCornell, this team is unstoppable. That's why it's absolutely impossible for the Raiders and Raiderettes to be defeated.

Inside the Diamond with Softball

Junior Juanfierra Thomas & Senior Ashley Warren waiting for a hit.

This year, the Raiderettes Softball team made a turnaround. In the past, the team has suffered from a losing streak. The girls worked very hard this summer to start their season off right. The Raiderettes showed a tremendous amount of dedication for their team and were determined to make a change. Before the season, they started off with two pre-season games, already with a record of 2-0. With the help of new coach, Robert Woods, the Raiderettes proved that they are great Inside and out of the diamond.

On the baseball diamond, sweat is dripped, time is lost, and the thrill is yours. Having a storied season, with all the hardships, hard-work, and passion being put in toward the love of the game, Raiders have been known to take what is rightfully theirs. The mighty Raiders got out of the gates on a quest to define themselves as champions. For years, we have fought for pride but in 2008, the Raiders fought to be the team that conquered Middle Georgia.

THE N ZONE

Football, the heart and soul of the Northeast family, looks to the top with their ultimate goal being to make it to the Dome. Over the years, injuries have plagued and drowned the hearts of the hopeful. The mighty Raiders have taken these experiences and looked to turn them into a winning formula. When asked how to describe these events, Head Coach Bruce Mullen said, "We've been in the valley, and it was low. Now on the mountain top, the Raiders have grown."

Every Raider Has a Little Cheerleader "N"side of Them

A cheerleader is more than a girl who jumps, yells, and shakes her pom-poms. The Northeast High School cheerleaders are there for our teams in rain or shine, whether they're cheering the Raiders to victory or being the voice of solace during a humbling defeat. Our cheerleaders are as much a part of the athletic landscape as coaches and referees. They often leave the games hoarse, injured, and exhausted, but they don't let anything dampen their Raider spirit. The cheerleaders are the heart and soul of the school, and Northeast just wouldn't be the same without them. Go ahead and admit it—there's a little cheerleader inside of us all!

Shikeria Morgan

NSIDE LUNCH

Underclassmen just happy that lunch has arrived so they can chill for about 30 minutes.

Smile for the camera, Mrs. Grant.

Mrs. Joann Bell does a good job at attending to the students at the cashier stand.

Freshman, Onzalo Green watches as her friend enjoys a Sprite during lunch break.

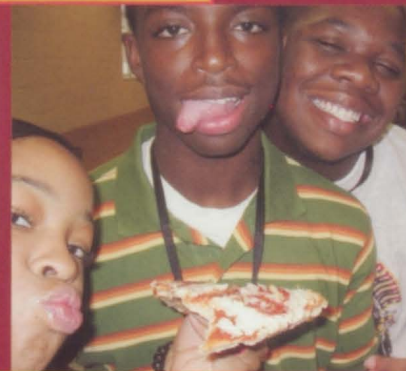

Too bad I ran out of money, I could have been in that lunch room enjoying a salad!

After a long day of learning, Northeast students satisfy their appetites with a healthy meal from the cafeteria. Say "chesse"!

Senior Kikelomo Moreira is having no problem feeding her hungry stomach!!!! Eat on, girl!

Seniors, Sheroni Danielly, Darrius James, and Quinterrence Bell fighting for the last slice of pizza.

Mrs. Mary Mathis taking a short break before the next lunch crowd comes in.

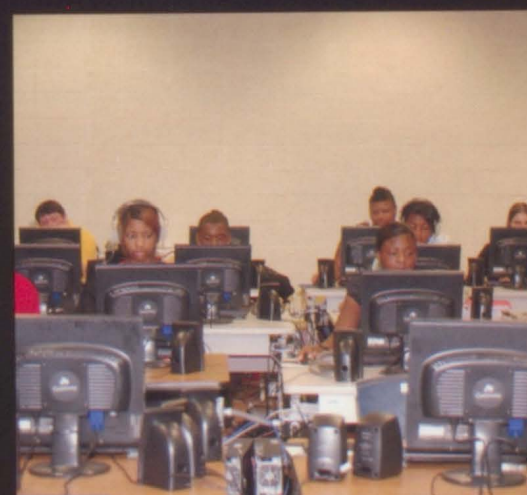

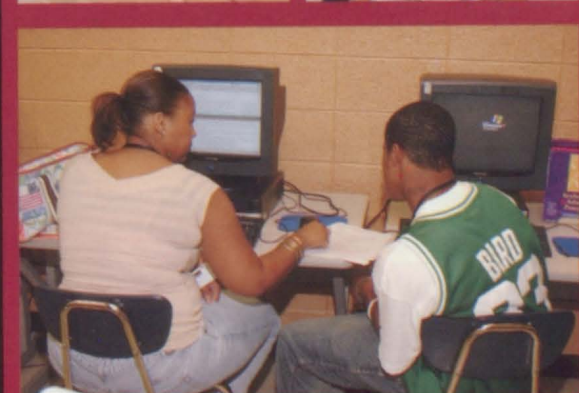

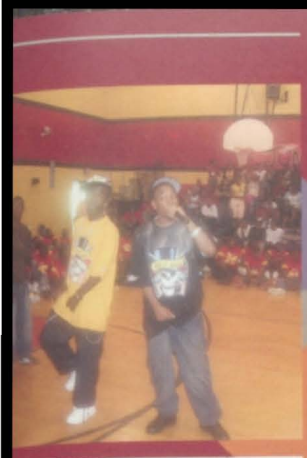

One of our new lunch staff members, Mrs. Lashunda Hightower, always keeps a smile on her face and does an excellent job.

Yes! Finally...the time has come. Time to smell and taste the french fries, salads, hot wings and one of the Nside's best... chicken sandwiches.

Now, this is what I'm talking about. There is nothing like having a nice lunch before another class starts. It might not be the best lunch ever, but hey, at least it fills you up.

So I say, let's make the best of it while it last.

Education at its Best

People say that its not what you know, but who you know. At Northeast, we ask what good is a person without a mind? This year, academics are the main focus of the year. A mind is a terrible thing to waste; therefore, I say success is determined by the knowledge attained. As a school, we are rated under the Bibb County System, and AYP is the status we must attain. In the year of 2008, Northeast is a true story in academic achievement.

(Below) An Economics class is working hard to complete a class assignment.

Junior Jasmine Cherry leads her group in a class discussion.

Senior JaQuandria Floyd concentrates as she prepares for a test in Mr. Brooks's class.

Students in Mrs. Jeffrey's Marketing class are taught to be leaders and broadcasters.

Seniors Bruce Mullen, La'keisha Barnes, Deishana Jackson are attentive in class.

Seniors Mary Thomas and Shareka Hillman focus as they prepare themselves for the EOCT.

Entrepreneur Mr. Stanley substitutes in a math class to make sure that the learning curve is not lost even though the teacher is gone.

Ms. Braswell explains important history facts that may be helpful in the future.

Coach and educator Mr. Talbott instructs his students through the direction of a computer program.

Junior Apifiney Major works hard at maintaining good grades.

Nvolved in Academics

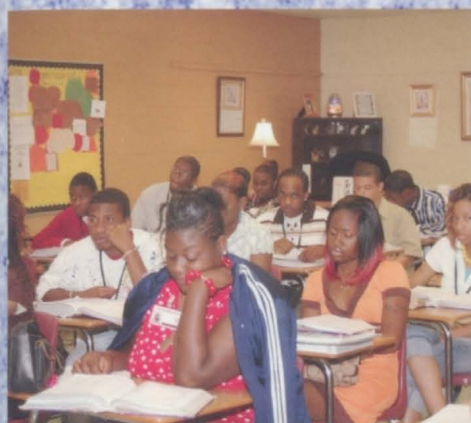

Mrs. Burton's students can't wait to answer questions

Coach Cunningham makes sure that Raiders are the best on and off the field.

Senior Chantia Brown reads aloud to her class.

Like many schools, the Raider family has faced many obstacles. One obstacle has been being thought of as the county's underachievers. But the real story is a success story. Many don't know that Northeast had the highest percentage gains in Bibb County on the GHSGT, was recognized as an Advanced Placement School of Distinction, and had more first place winners in the countywide Technology Fair than any other school. At Northeast, we bring our "A" game to the classroom as much as we do to the athletic field.

Black History -N- the Making!

Theme: Remembering the Past, Celebrating the Present!!!!

Ms. Sberard, the director and organizer, says, "I wanted the students to remember and have a sense of pride about where they come from in order to be able to celebrate where they are today!" Over 170 students showed how Poetry, Dance, Music, and Acting have evolved from the "Motherland" until the present.

The Famous Northeast High School Black History Choir, comprised of 100 plus voices, captivated the hearts of all who attended. Under the direction of Ms. Sberard and Mr. Banks, they displayed their impressive "N" style by singing songs from Ancient Africa (in the native language) to modern day Gospel Classics.

Senior, Breanna Jones and Junior, Mariab Harris perform an authentic African dance. These ladies can move!

Right: Senior, Latoya Woodford portrays Queen Nefertiti. African American students were reminded that we did not come from slavery. We were once Kings and Queens!

Did you know that the Drill Team you see everyday was a daily ritual in Ancient Africa? Warriors spent hours in the hot sun training for war and learning Tribal Dances to floor their opposers. Northeast High School's Drill Team were the Region Champions this year...carrying on the legacy!!!

Black by Popular Demand!!!!

Senior, Dextroise Dillard portrays Shaka Zulu, who was king of the powerful Nation of Zulus.

Right: Former City Council President, The Honorable Judge Anita Ponder was the guest speaker for this occasion. She gave the student body words of inspiration and praise, "I have been to several Black History Programs but, none of them have captured the origin and transition of African Americans like this one! I have to say that this is the best one I've been to yet!" She gave us reflections of our past and encouraged us to visualize and pursue our future.

Left: Senior, Kikelomo Moriera was mesmerizing as Queen Cleopatra. She is carried by her handsome subject, Junior, Quintavious Nelson.

Right: Sophomore, Heaven Whitby recites the poem, "Mother Alpha & Mother Omega" to remind African American students of their royal origin.

Above: Students take us back to the Disco Age, the 70's, with the Soool Train Line, "Let It Whip!"
Can you say.....RIGHT ON?

Supporters of the "N" Side Story

The Editor-In-Chief and the Business Manager would like to thank all of the businesses who supported us this year with 2007-2008 yearbook. We appreciate everything that your business has done and donated to us.

As the yearbook editor, I always assumed that being a part of the yearbook staff consisted of taking pictures, getting into all of the games for free, and getting out of class early. After a few weeks on the staff, however, I realized that it's so much more than that. It includes pressing deadlines, not having a life for weeks at a time, frustration with staff members, and stress at hypertension levels. Despite all this, though, the joy of seeing the school's memories and special moments put into print make all of the drama seem worthwhile.

A job of this magnitude can not be accomplished by one person alone, and I would like to take this time to thank the dedicated staff members, photographers, and teachers who worked as tirelessly as I did. This book couldn't have been a success without you and our supporters.

It's the culminating event of twelve years of hard work, sweat, and tears: High School Graduation. The Northeast Class of 2008 proudly took to the stage on May 24, 2008, to receive their high school diplomas in front of friends, family, and faculty. There were as many tears as there were smiles, as we bid farewell to our childhood and high school days in preparation for what lies ahead in the future. While we are all destined for different directions, our hearts will never stray too far from the red, black, and gold!!

Senior Janecia Ross
(Below) Janecia Ross has overcome many personal obstacles to get to this point, but she never let anything stand in the way of earning her high school diploma.

Senior Cortney Green
(Below) Cortney Green is looking forward to beginning college in the fall and pursuing a career in physical therapy.

Charles Christian-Brown

Senior Victoria Jordam

(Above): Shawndreeka Causey reminds us that there will never be another "Lady" like her at Northeast. No one was willing to argue with her!

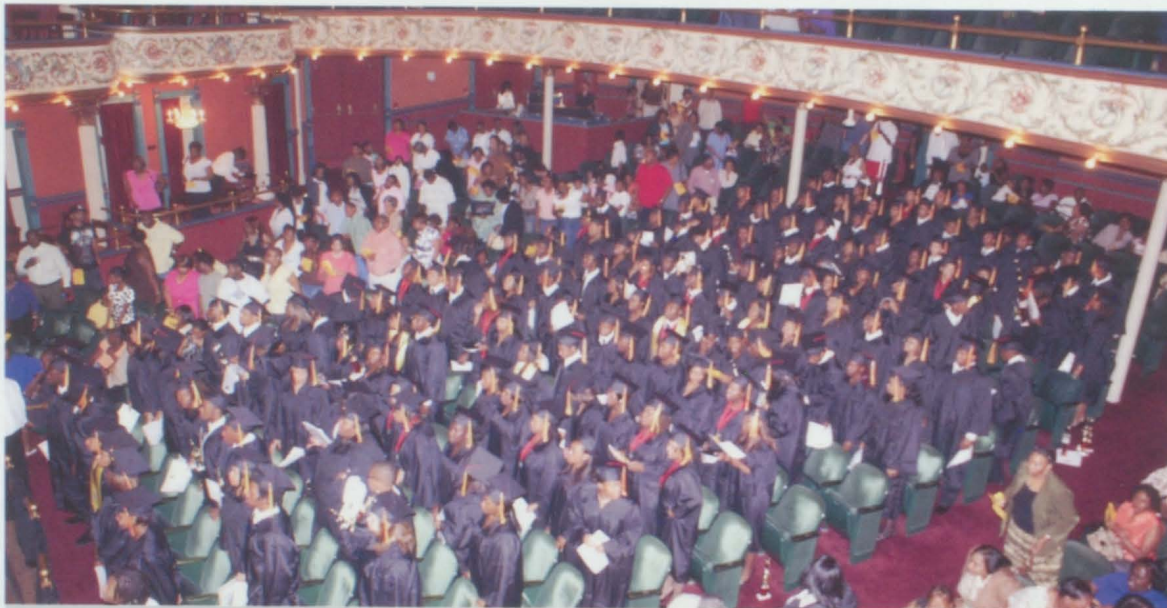

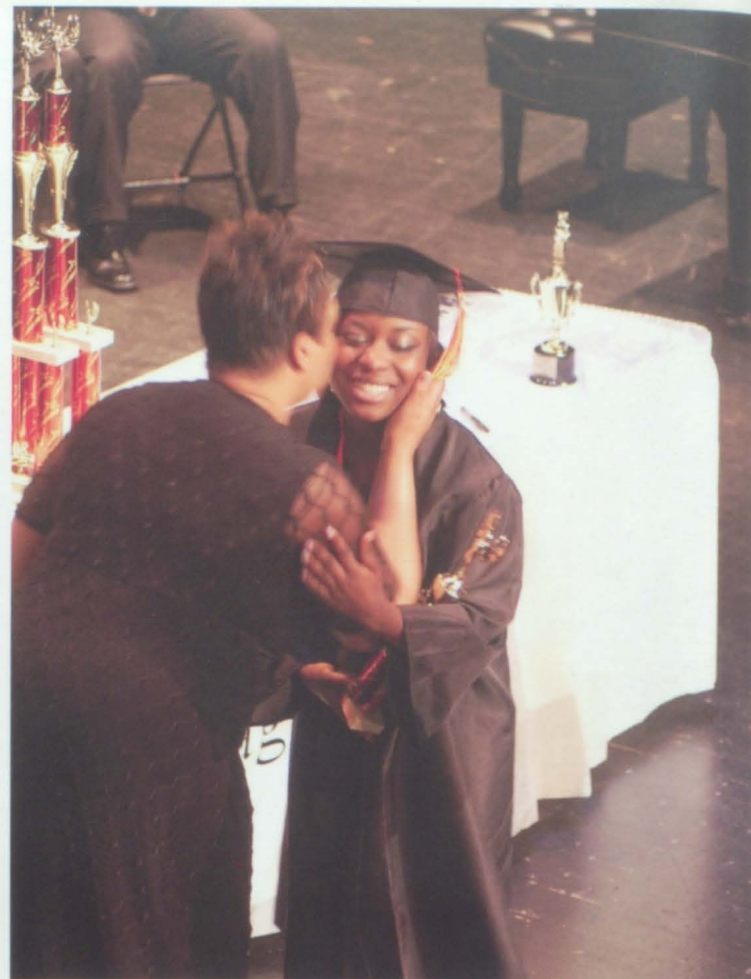

The End is Only the Beginning.....

Poup "N" Circumstance

Senior Honors Night is the one night besides graduation that we as a school take time out to honor our seniors and their accomplishments. Seniors, donned in their graduation caps and gowns, took the stage to receive a plethora of awards from the seven-figure scholarships to trophies and certificates. The seniors were also treated to an inspirational speech by judge and 1993 Northeast graduate, Erica Woodford, who encouraged the students to chase after their dreams and to give back to their communities. It was a bittersweet night that will rest in the hearts of the seniors now and forever.
